AXE HANGS OVER SEVEN CENTRES

Shake-up is likely to see closure of several council-operated facilities

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlnews.co.uk

SEVEN children's centres could close as part of a shake-up of council-run services.

The public is being given a say on the controversial proposals, which would see Bounds Green, The Ladder, Campsbourne, Earlsmead, Noel Park, South Grove and Stonecroft centres shut.

Haringey Council's cabinet agreed at a meeting last week to begin a consultation on plans which would see nine of the borough's 16 centres upgraded, while the remaining seven would become Community Access Points, offering a much more limited range of services.

Under the proposals, the new-look children's centres would offer services to all families with children and young people aged up to 19 – or 25 in the case of those with special educational needs and disabilities – rather than just to families with children aged up to five, as exists at present.

The council has had to slash its early years budget by £1.4million over the next three years as a result of government funding cuts and is re-evaluating the way it delivers children services.

A 12-week consultation period started on Monday and will run until September 21. During this period there will also be a number of workshops to enable people to discuss the proposals in person, as well as the opportunity to respond to the consultation electronically or via email.

The findings of the consultation would then be taken to the council's cabinet meeting in the autumn. If the proposals are approved, changes would begin to be implemented from April 2016.

Councillor Ann Waters, cabinet member for children and families, said: "As part of our commitment to giving every child in Haringey the very best start in life, we want to explore changing how children's centre services are delivered so that more people can access their support and we can make the best use of scarce resources.

"It is clear that it will not be possible to continue to fund Haringey's 16 children's centres in the way that they currently are and we have to find new ways of delivering services.

"We believe that these proposals will help us to improve services so that more children and families in Haringey are supported to become healthier, happier and more resilient."

However, the Liberal Democrats said they shared the concerns of residents over the closures, which they claimed were unnecessary.

"There is some money available to keep more centres open, as we showed in our budget proposal to save some of the centres," said Councillor Liz Morris, Haringey Lib Dem spokeswoman for children.

"It is a shame Labour have ignored our recommendations and are pressing ahead with their plans."

Recipes mean prizes in council competition

A COMPETITION was launched in Haringey this week to find the tastiest and healthiest recipes for a new cook book.

As part of the Healthy Haringey campaign, the council is searching for residents' most mouth-watering and nutritious recipes to be published in an electronic cook book, Haringey on a Plate.

Residents are encouraged to submit their best home-cooked, healthy recipes. These could be special dishes that have been passed down from a relative, or new culinary discoveries.

The 30 best recipes will be published in the e-book later this year.

The Haringey on a Plate competition follows the success of last month's Fakeaway cookery classes, where participants were shown healthier ways of making their favourite takeaway foods themselves at home.

Haringey Council is hosting a conference on obesity at the Tottenham University Technical College tomorrow (Thursday) – bringing together partners in health, education, local government, business, the voluntary sector and the wider community to drive forward plans to make Haringey a healthier place to live, work and visit.

Councillor Peter Morton, cabinet member for health and well-being, said: "Everyone in Haringey knows what a wealth of culinary talent exists in the borough and I am sure that this competition will be a really effective and engaging way of sharing healthy recipes locally."

Submissions to the Haringey on a Plate competition can be made by email to recipes@haringey.gov.uk. You can also tweet pictures of submitted recipes using the hashtag #HealthyHaringey.

Winning contributors will receive a limited edition Haringey on a Plate pack and see their winning recipe published in the e-book later this year.

Help at hand for beleaguered GPs

URGENT action to ease the pressure on overstretched GP services in Tottenham has been pledged by NHS England – the body which pays for practices.

It follows a new report revealing that six of Haringey's 19 council wards currently exceed national guidelines for the average number of patients on a surgery's register.

The average is 1,800 patients per GP practice, but, according to the report by the North East London Partnership Plan, commissioned by NHS England, demand for GP provision far outstrips demand in those six wards, five of which are in Tottenham.

The area's population is expected to grow significantly as a result of future regeneration and Haringey Council and Haringey Clinical Commissioning Group have been demanding improved GP provision to solve the chronic shortage and ensure current residents and newcomers are able to see a doctor within national guidelines.

In response, NHS England confirmed last week that it is working on an urgent solution to increase the number of GPs in Tottenham Hale by the autumn and has promised to ensure there is adequate provision across the wider Tottenham area in future.

Councillor Peter Morton, cabinet member for health and well-being, said: "This report shows there is already a pressing need for action on GP access in Tottenham and that this will only increase as the local population grows. That's why we're calling on NHS England to work with us and our partners to ensure that local residents can access essential primary care services close to home, without having to battle against a lack of GP spaces and excessive waiting lists.

"If we're to deliver the services that local communities need to flourish – both now and in the future – it's essential that other partners also play their part."

Bid for a high-tech zone gathers pace

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LEADING councillor is determined to turn the Lea Valley into the Silicon valley of London.

Alan Sitkin, cabinet member for economic regeneration, is launching a bid to try and secure grant funding for a series of initiatives aimed at helping entrepreneurs develop their own apps and software and start-up companies that he believes could go some way to replacing the former heavy industry in the east of the borough as the main source of employment.

Speaking to the Advertiser as the team he has gathered to support the idea begins the process of applying to outside bodies for grant funding, Mr Sitkin said that launching a number of classes geared towards coding for beginners could launch a micro-economy in Enfield.

"There has already been some work done in schools with teaching coding, but we want to take that one step further and translate people's ideas for apps and software programmes into economic growth," he said.

Working with Despina Johnson, from the Enfield Business Centre, he is hoping that funding can be secured to hire spaces and contract teachers to help residents in the borough with the skills they need to either set up their own business or market their product to tech giants.

However, in a written question submitted before tonight's full council meeting in the civic centre, in Silver Street, Enfield Town, Mr Sitkin was challenged by Tory councillor for Town ward Nick Dines that the careers service in the borough's schools was not doing enough to promote tech and entrepreneurial skills. Responding to the charge that at the moment school leavers are not equipped to take advantage of the opportunities offered by tech firms, Mr Sitkin said: "We are currently in discussion with a young entrepreneur of the year about using one of the council's buildings for a tech hub in Enfield. This project is one of many we are perusing."

Labour support for two in bid to become mayor

LABOUR Party members in two of the borough's parliamentary constituencies have pledged support for David Lammy and Tessa Jowell in the race to be the next Mayor of London.

However, while the Enfield North and Enfield Southgate members are backing the MP for Tottenham and the former government minister, Kate Osamor, the MP for Edmonton, which borders Mr Lammy's constituency, is backing another of the contenders – Sadiq Khan.

"He knows what is needed to win, in his own marginal constituency of Tooting and across the city," said Ms Osamor.

"He led Labour to the best local election results in the capital since 1971 and to seven additional MPs in the general election.

"He also reflects all that is good about modern and diverse London. He's the son of immigrants who came to the capital to make a better life. He grew up on a council estate and went to university before building a successful career as a lawyer and running his own firm."

On the Conservative side, former MP for Enfield North Nick de Bois has been appointed chairman of Zac Goldsmith's campaign to be the Tory candidate in the election for mayor next year.

Writing on the ConservativeHome blog, Mr de Bois said: "With Zac Goldsmith formally declaring his candidacy, with the backing of his constituents, we now have the best opportunity to ensure that, as Zac put it, London works for Londoners."

Sporting tributes:

Footballer Michael playing for memory of loved ones

PEOPLE'S passion for football will be harnessed to remember loved ones on Saturday after a man from Enfield dreamt up a unique series of tournaments.

Michael Donaldson, 32, of Greenwood Avenue, Brimsdown, founded Play for the Memory after searching for a way to unite those who have lost people close to them.

On Saturday, he will hold the first football tournament, with 12 teams battling it out to scoop the £1,000 top prize while raising awareness of their causes at the same time.

It will take place at The Hive, in Camrose Avenue, Edgware, and Michael hopes the tournament will be the first of many.

Similar competitions in netball and basketball are also being planned.

Michael, who used to play football in Brazil and who now coaches youngsters, told the Advertiser: "We have teams entering to highlight the issue of knife crime, to raise awareness of illnesses or to gather funds for youth clubs and churches.

"It's very mixed. Most people have lost someone and men in particular aren't always able to speak openly about these sorts of things.

"I hope it will be a fun day and that people will be able to share experiences and do something positive in memory of their loved ones, too."

Other prizes include a signed Manchester United shirt, a pair of Michael Carrick's boots and goalkeeping gloves. A player of the tournament trophy is also up for grabs.

Singing the borough's praises with day at the opera

Shopping centre performance celebrates 50th birthday

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A MUSICAL "flash mob" entertained surprised shoppers on Saturday as part of the borough's 50th anniversary celebrations.

Singers from Southgate Opera company descended on Palace Gardens shopping centre for the impromptu performance.

Achilleas Georgiou, deputy leader of Enfield Council, said that the celebrations taking place this year to mark 50 years of the London borough of Enfield were intended to show off the borough's talent and heritage.

He said: "This was a brilliant way for the council and Southgate Opera to showcase the talent Enfield has to offer, promote the LBE50 campaign and offer shoppers in Enfield Town some fantastic free entertainment.

"LBE50 is all about marking the 50th anniversary of the creation of the London borough of Enfield in style and there'll be a whole host of events taking place around the borough this year.

"I urge organisations and individuals to get involved and help us celebrate the borough's 50th birthday."

Flying the flag for the forces

THE borough is gearing up to pay tribute to the men and women who have served in the armed forces.

The annual Armed Forces Parade will begin at 11.15am on Sunday from Chase Side Primary School, in Trinity Street, Enfield, before marching to the war memorial, in Windmill Hill.

Members of the armed forces and dignitaries will then progress to Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street, where the armed forces flag will be raised and a salute taken.

The parade will then return to the Royal British Legion, in Holt-whites Hill, Enfield.

Enfield Council's cabinet member for community organisations and culture Yasemin Brett said: "We owe an enormous debt of gratitude and respect to our armed forces, who are, quite simply, the best in the world at what they do.

"I urge residents to turn out and cheer on our servicemen and women as they parade through Enfield."

Aspiring athletes take centre stage

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

YOUNG athletes hoping to emulate their Paralympic heroes competed at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre in Edmonton.

More than 400 children took part in the London Youth Games ParaGames Athletics last week – an event that helped put six-time Paralympic wheelchair racing champion David Weir on the road to success and stardom.

Vicky Griffiths, London Youth Games school and community competition officer, said: “It was a fantastic day’s competition for all involved. The ParaGames Athletics is always a highlight of the London Youth Games season and we believe it gives young competitors, both new and experienced, a great competitive experience.

“We hope that every young person competing is inspired to stay in sport, whether that’s as an athlete, a coach or a volunteer.”

Events includes 100metres, 200m, long jump and javelin. Competitors from schools in Enfield helped place the borough fifth in the girls’ standings and 13th in the boys’ table, out of 25 London boroughs taking part.

'A volunteer is not a member of staff'

Campaigner issues stark warning over library proposals

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A LEADING campaigner has warned that axing mobile libraries and relying on voluntary staff could leave much of the borough without a functioning service.

Susan Chinn, chairwoman of Highgate Library Action Group and one of the founding members of the Libraries for Life for Londoners group, was instrumental in the grassroots campaign which saw Haringey Council retain all its libraries.

With Enfield Council's cabinet giving the go-ahead to a plan for only four fully-staffed libraries in the borough, and the axed mobile library to be replaced by a volunteer-led delivery service, Ms Chinn warned that the changes would hit those most in need hardest.

She told the Advertiser: "A volunteer is not a member of staff – time moves on and so do volunteers. So, in five years' time, there is no guarantee that that service will even be there."

The strategy agreed last night, if approved by full council, will see Enfield Town, Palmers Green, Ordnance Road (Enfield Lock) and Edmonton Green become "flagship" libraries with extended opening hours and open seven days a week.

However, as well as removing the mobile service, the other 13 libraries in the borough will become "community libraries" which will share space with other groups who need a base such as voluntary organisations.

The space for stock, including books and DVDs, will be scaled back in these libraries and replaced with kiosks for orders and returns as well as pick-up lockers to collect orders from the online library catalogue.

The strategy also says there will be some space for study and computer terminals.

Although a trained volunteer co-ordinator will oversee the new, scaled-back libraries, the strategy acknowledges that the new spaces will be "supported by volunteers".

Ms Chinn warned that the changes would have the biggest impact on the most vulnerable members of society, adding: "Libraries form part of children and young people's education as well as giving people a sense of belonging in their communities."

While the four new flagship libraries will have computers, wi-fi and study space, one of the concerns addressed in the strategy is that room to study will be at a premium in the already busy facilities.

"Councils forget that a quarter of people do not have their own computer and are not connected to wi-fi," said Ms Chinn.

"Libraries are the only free places they can do things like job applications and the myriad of other things in modern life that you need a computer for. This could leave people effectively cut off from society."

The strategy will be put before the full council tonight (Wednesday).

Stations prepare for 24-hour Piccadilly line – as Tube drivers confirm one-day strike in protest

FOUR Tube stations in the borough will open all night long at weekends from September.

The Piccadilly line will be one of five Underground lines to benefit from 24-hour services on Friday and Saturday nights – with Arncliffe, Southgate, Oakwood and Cockfosters all set to benefit. A new Transport for London night map was published this week and confirmed that services would run on the Piccadilly line every 10 minutes between Cockfosters and Heathrow Terminal 5.

At present, the last Tube service into central London from Cockfosters leaves at 11.54pm, and the last train arrives at 1.14am. A night bus journey from Kings Cross to Cockfosters typically takes 54 minutes, while a Tube journey is 31 minutes.

As well as journey times, TfL claims the new service will boost the economy by about £360million and support

2,000 permanent jobs. The move was prompted by soaring numbers of people using public transport on Friday and Saturday nights – with almost a three-fold increase in night bus passengers over the past 15 years.

Not everyone is happy however. Tube drivers have voted to stage a one-day strike on July 8 in protest over pay and health and safety regulations resulting from the new 24-hour service.

British Transport Police says it will add an extra 100 officers to patrol stations. Fares will be no different to daytime services.

‘Don’t expect miracles,’ warns Boris after Overground teething problems

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

LONDON Mayor Boris Johnson has told passengers using the new London Overground service to Enfield Town and Cheshunt not to expect “miracles” following several weeks of delays and cancellations.

Transport for London took over control of train services on the line from Abellio Greater Anglia on May 31, promising improved reliability, passenger satisfaction and cheaper fares.

But problems with the carriages transferred to TfL’s London Overground network have resulted in a series of delays and cancellations.

Enfield commuter Andrea Lois was one of several who took to social media to complain about the service. She said on Twitter: “Another day, another delay for Enfield Town.”

“Tell me again @LDNOverground why it’s better that we’re now part of your network?”

Joanne McCartney, the London Assembly member representing Enfield and Haringey, quizzed Mr Johnson at City Hall.

The mayor said: “You aren’t going to see miracles. I am confident in a couple of years you will see the sort of improvement we have seen on other parts of the Overground.”

“Our objective is to invest in these stations, invest in these services and invest in new trains.”

London Overground managers later said the problems stemmed from the standard of train carriages received by TfL from Abellio Greater Anglia, some of which had not been in use for three years and required urgent repairs and maintenance.

It meant that some carriages were not ready to go into service and the length of trains had to be reduced from eight carriages to four.

TfL claims most peak services are now running with eight carriages again, but have yet to explain why it was unaware of the sub-standard rolling stock before taking control of the line.

Ms McCartney said: “I was pleased when TfL took on services running between Liverpool Street and Enfield Town, but I am very disappointed to have received complaints from residents about the deterioration in services.”

“A reduction in carriages from eight to four is unacceptable. The resulting overcrowding and delays have left passengers understandably annoyed.”

London Overground has been one of the most successful rail services in the country since it launched in 2007, with nine out of 10 passengers saying they are satisfied.

A £260million deal to bring new trains to the Enfield Town, Cheshunt and Chingford lines has been signed with German firm Bombardier Transportation. The 45 new trains, with walk-through carriages, air conditioning and improved accessibility, are due to run from 2018.

Woman pocketed 'charity' money

A WOMAN from Enfield has been sentenced for collecting charity donations from residents in Ponders End and Edmonton under false pretences.

Victoria Dooley, 33, of Exeter Road, Ponders End, pleaded guilty at Tottenham Magistrates' Court in February to a count of committing fraud by false representation.

On Thursday, she was sentenced to four weeks in prison, suspended for 12 months.

She was also ordered to pay £200 in costs and was handed a Criminal Behaviour Order.

In the course of her sentencing, the court heard how Dooley regularly called on residents in the area claiming she was looking for sponsorship to do a charity fun run.

Suspended sentence:
Victoria Dooley

However, rather than taking part in the run and giving the money legitimately to a charity, she pocketed the cash she collected.

Dooley is banned from calling at any residential address anywhere in greater London to ask for money from anyone she does not know.

Detective Constable Marvin Turner, from Enfield's community safety unit, said: "Dooley has a history of preying on the elderly and their good nature in order to falsely obtain money from them."

"This order sends out a clear message that this kind of behaviour is totally unacceptable and we are committed to bringing to justice individuals that target vulnerable members of our community."

In total, Dooley managed to scam a total of just £14 from trusting neighbours before she was caught.

Show of strength: Police pin a man to the ground after the fight

Lunchtime brawl panics shoppers

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FIREARMS officers swooped on a shopping centre in Enfield Town shopping centre after a fight broke out between a group of young men wielding knives and metal poles.

The confrontation yesterday lunchtime began in JD Sports, in Palace Gardens. Five men were seen fleeing from the shop brandishing weapons and being chased by security guards.

Shoppers reported "a lot of panic" as staff tried to deal with the situation and warned people to stay away from the area.

A man was later seen arguing with security guards as shoppers looked on. An elderly woman fell over as a scuffle broke out before armed police officers arrived on the scene to make an arrest.

Police later stated that they had been called to the scene at 12.14pm to reports of a man with a gun, but that no firearm had been seen.

They reported that three men had entered JD Sports and had had a confrontation with a member of staff. According to police, a further two men then entered the shop.

Shopper Claire Yates was in department store Marks and Spencer, close to the scene, when it happened. She told the Advertiser: "I had just bought my shopping and was trying to leave when we were told to get back from the entrance."

"They locked us in and there was a lot of panic as people were saying they had knives. I didn't hang around."

Rebecca Taylor, a charity fundraiser who witnessed the incident, added: "I saw a young guy being pinned down by security guards."

One man was arrested at the scene. As the Advertiser went to press, police officers were still searching for four other suspects.

Police appeal for witnesses after attempted rape in Jubilee Park

POLICE in the borough are appealing for witnesses after an attempted rape in a park.

The victim, a woman in her 30s, was attacked in Jubilee Park, in Edmonton, near the gates in Houndsfield Road, just before 9pm last Sunday.

Detectives are trying to trace a man who approached the victim and the suspect after the woman had been attacked and pulled to the ground.

An investigation has been launched by the Met Police's sex offences team.

A 29-year-old man was arrested the same evening in Balham Road, Edmonton, on suspicion of attempted rape and taken to an east London police station. He has since been released on police bail until a date in late August.

Columnist

Doug
Taylor

Enfield Council leader

THE general election gave the Conservatives the green light to increase cuts to public services.

They made no secret that they would do this and inevitably this reduces the quality of services that can be provided by the council.

We all need those services and while the most vulnerable are put at greatest risk we will all suffer some detriment.

As a council we are facing a massive £80million of cuts and I believe our Conservative opposition would simply say we have to get on with it.

We will do that, but the price will be reducing some services and ending others.

That's the financial reality. Local Conservatives worked hard for a government to be elected that intends to cut funding to local services.

Therefore they have no right to then criticise the cuts that have to be made in Enfield.

While they might try and muddy the waters with spurious attacks, the stark reality is £80m of cuts is so significant that the quality of provision is inevitably jeopardised.

I simply call on our local Conservatives to be honest and admit they support cuts, accept their responsibility for their policy and not try and hide from the direct consequences of it.

Just don't be hypocritical. I can pledge that I will try and minimise the pain that will be caused, use proper evidence to determine decisions, but I cannot fully prevent the impact of cuts.

They should acknowledge that with less money, some things won't get done and other things will take longer to do. Their policies have real consequences.

We must stop children from being exploited

BARNARDO'S is calling on the new UK government to commit to ensuring that all children in England receive age-appropriate sex and healthy relationship education in order to help tackle child sexual exploitation.

More must be done to prevent children from being exploited and we want the new administration to make the commitment so that children will get the guidance they need to form healthy relationships in the future.

It is important for young people to understand that anyone is vulnerable to this crime, regardless of their background.

Due to the challenging nature of this topic, we also want teachers to receive specialist training on the nature of child sexual exploitation and abuse so they can deliver classes effectively and confidently.

Parents also have a hugely important role to play and schools should involve them in the planning and process from the beginning, including taking into account their wishes on whether boys and girls should be given sex and relationship education together.

Our specialist services are seeing more and more children who are identified as needing our help.

Whenever and wherever we open a service we find children who urgently need our support. Recent high-profile sex abuse scandals pushed the issue to the forefront of the public consciousness but we must ensure that this profound crisis doesn't get lost post-election.

We must maintain the political momentum on this threat to children. It must not be allowed to drop off the agenda.

The new government must work with local authorities, police, schools and parents across England to keep young people safe.

People are people - just as cats are cats!

FOLLOWING the shooting of nine African Americans in a church in the USA and the strange story of Rachel Dolezal, a white woman who identified as black, the issue of race, which many of us were happy to leave to the past, is resurfacing.

As a person of African origin, I grew up in Africa, seeing Africans born with no pigment who were as white as can be. Many were happy to leave to the past, is resurfacing.

Having lived in London for decades, I am puzzled to this day, that many white people are not even aware that there are black albinos (please Google it). I was taken aback when my own teenager came home to describe a boy he believed to be white but who was in fact a black albino. Such information should be widely taught in schools.

I saw Africans who were born dark-skinned lose their skin colour due to vitiligo. Michael Jackson highlighted this, but many people cynically dismissed it. I myself suffered from vitiligo, which has since abated. I saw African cousins with natural hazel eyes, relatives with hair straighter than would be considered African. Today, many people of African origin are waking up to the fact that their hair texture is transformed when they use non-silicone, non-sulphate and non-alcohol based products.

There is no tangible difference between a white person and a black one. Just like a white tiger and a non-white tiger, they are both tigers.

It is the same story with pussy cats. They are of different colours, slightly different shapes, slightly different furs, but they are all pussy cats.

Our education system and news has to be broad enough to include such unifying facts and not leave the vast majority of people in the dark about fellow citizens. Such ignorance leads to the kind of catastrophe African Americans witnessed last Wednesday in a church in the USA.

Don't build on 'natural stage'

THE Principal Theatre Company gave yet another of their sparkling performances – this time of Twelfth Night – on the Old Ashmolean rugby club ground last week.

What a great treat this talented and vibrant young company bring to the people of Southgate every year and in such beautiful, tree-lined surroundings. Paul Gladwin is the company's artistic director and his team of brilliant young players are to be congratulated.

What a pity then that this natural stage is under threat as a plan to create a new school on this precious open space seems to be progressing.

Surely there must be more suitable areas to build such a development rather than lose this ancient woodland?

Make it easier to get refunds

I HAVE uncovered figures which indicate that an estimated 25,872,000 delayed journeys take place annually on the commuter lines into London, with 85 per cent of refunds remaining uncollected by travellers. This figure amounts to in excess of £56million a year.

At present, north London commuters using the overland trains into London are facing unacceptable levels of delay as a common occurrence. Because claiming back for delayed journeys is cumbersome, millions go unclaimed every year.

I am calling on the Mayor of London to see what he can do to encourage train companies to automate the process as is the case with Oyster travel, making it easier for hard-pressed commuters to receive the compensation they are fully entitled to.

In the longer term, these shocking figures makes a strong argument for the mayor and Transport for London taking over the operation of the overland lines within the M25 and integrating them into the capital's services.

Call for improvement in MMR vaccinations

New figures reveal lowest take-up rate in the country

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

HEALTH campaigners are urging Enfield Council to "prioritise" child vaccinations after new figures showed the borough had the lowest rate of MMR jabs in the country.

Public Health England revealed that just 78.3 per cent of children under two years of age had received the all-in-one injection against measles, mumps and rubella, compared to the national average of 92.7 per cent.

Campaigners from Healthwatch Enfield said this was now the most concerning health factor affecting the borough.

The health watchdog's chief executive Lorna Reith told the Advertiser: "We need to raise awareness about MMR and also make it easier for parents to take their child somewhere to get the vaccine."

Parents are offered free vaccinations for their children by their GPs, but sessions can also be held in schools or children's centres in areas where take-up is low.

The 2015 figures for MMR jabs in Enfield represented nearly a five per cent drop compared to 2014.

Health bosses have been unable to explain why the rate has fallen so significantly in a single year.

Responsibility for local public health was transferred to the council in April 2013. The council had not responded to the Advertiser's request for a comment at time of going to press.

Other health indicators revealed in the annual profile for Enfield published by Public Health England, a government agency, showed there had been improvements in tackling inequality and infant mortality.

Child obesity rates, sexually transmitted infections and the number of winter deaths all remain higher than the national average.

Ms Reith said: "Healthwatch Enfield welcomes news that health inequalities are falling in the borough, alongside infant mortality.

"We remain concerned that not enough is being done to combat child obesity in the borough and urge health planners to prioritise MMR vaccinations since Enfield now has the worst record in the country."

Despite the reduction in health inequalities, life expectancy is 7.7 years lower for men and 4.3 years lower for women in the most deprived areas of Enfield than in the most affluent areas.

Infant mortality is now 4.6 per 1,000 births compared to 5.6 in 2014, while nearly one-in-four children in Enfield – 24.8 per cent – is now classified as obese by the age of 11, a slight increase from last year.

Raising awareness: Lorna Reith, head of Healthwatch Enfield

Outdoor fun aims to keep older people fit

Maid of iron: Eddie Brocklesby

OLDER people in the borough, sick of the same old four walls of the gym, can get a sweat on with some outdoor fun.

Silverfit, a health charity that offers outdoor fitness classes tailored to the needs of older people, is being launched in Enfield this week.

The first class will kick off in Broomfield Park, in Palmers Green, at 10.30am on Friday.

Silverfit was set up by the UK's oldest Ironwoman, Eddie Brocklesby, 72, who completed a gruelling Ironman triathlon in Lanzarote in 2011 when she was in her late 60s.

She set up the charity to show others that fitness is possible at any age.

Anyone interested in taking part can meet the team for the first session on Friday at Cyril Smith Court, in Broomfield Lane.

The first session is free and then the cost is £3 per session for non-members for each class after that.

Former Gazette editor Bert Huggins dies at age of 100

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A FORMER group editor of a series of local newspapers has died at the age of 100 after spending more than 50 years of his career dedicated to reporting the news and views of the borough.

Born in Fulham, in south-west London, in 1914, Bert Huggins was a toddler when he moved to Enfield with his parents, who set up shop as tobacconists and confectioners on the corner of Church Street and Silver Street, in Enfield Town.

Bert went straight from Central School, in Southbury Road, to his first job as a junior reporter at the Enfield Gazette and Observer.

According to his niece Sandra's husband, Mike Fenner, Bert had to learn shorthand at evening classes.

But in the inter-war years shorthand classes were the preserve of budding secretaries and were dominated by young women.

"He told me he was the only boy and didn't know whether to be pleased or petrified," said Mike.

Bert worked his way up through the ranks at the Gazette, graduating from reporter to sub-editor to sports editor and editor.

He married Joan Bull, of Chase Side, in 1939 and they bought the house they were to live in for more than 60 years, in Queens Road, off Southbury Road, Enfield.

When war broke out in 1939, Bert joined up to serve in the Royal Air Force and was posted to the radar section in Cape Wrath, on the north coast of Scotland.

He moved to the cypher section, from where he sent encrypted messages across northern Europe.

When the war ended and he was demobbed from the RAF, Bert stepped back into his old life at the heart of local news and took over editing the Palmer's Green and Southgate Gazette before being promoted to group editor of all the north London titles – a role he carried out until his retirement in 1979.

Local hero: Bert Huggins, a newspaperman for more than 50 years

Mike revealed that sport always played a big role in Bert's life with a passion for cricket and football in school morphing into a love of tennis and badminton at club level in Enfield as an adult.

Bert and Joan were renowned for their green fingers and between them bagged a host of trophies and awards for their garden, with Mike remembering that Bert joked that "he was the muscle and his wife was the brains".

After Joan died in 2000, Bert continued living in Queens Road until a fall left him wheelchair bound. He moved to a retirement home in Solihull, in the west Midlands, to be closer to his niece and nephew and their family.

While living in the retirement home, he discovered a flair for watercolour painting and produced an annual calendar of his work that he gave to friends and family each year.

Bert turned 100 in 2014 and told Mike that as a young reporter that he would "sometimes go and interview centenarians – without ever thinking that I would be one myself one day".

He died on June 14 at home with his family around him after a chest infection.

The funeral will take place on Friday at 12.30pm at Robin Hood Crematorium, in Solihull, with a wake afterwards planned for the Sunrise Senior Living retirement home, in Solihull.

The Unintended Inheritance...

A client (we shall call Terry) came to make a will with us in 1999 together with his wife June. They made simple wills appointing each other as executors and leaving 50% of their estate to each other with the remainder to their two children Simon and Dorothy equally. These wills were professionally drawn up and executed at our offices.

In 2005, Terry and June separated after Terry was involved in an affair. For this reason Simon also fell out with his father and went to live with June. Dorothy on the other hand stayed in the family home with Terry. Unfortunately he began to suffer with Alzheimer's disease and became heavily reliant on Dorothy. As regards his marriage to June, this was never formally dissolved but they remained friends.

Realising that June still stood to inherit her father's estate, Dorothy suggested to Terry that he revise his will. In order to save money she went to the local supermarket and bought a "DIY Will Pack". She carefully copied and adapted the terms of the previous will such that she would inherit the bulk of the estate leaving a smaller share to her brother and even less to June. She then took Terry over to the neighbours so that they could witness his signature. She later said that the new terms of the will reflected her father's wishes as she had so lovingly looked after him for many years and he felt indebted to her.

Although he suffered from a degenerative disease, Terry still appeared to comprehend the terms of the will and was able to sign without difficulty. The neighbours were later able to verify this. On the face of it, the will was validly executed.

Sadly in 2012 Terry died suddenly. His newer will was taken to probate, but on the basis of lack of Knowledge and Approval, Simon successfully challenged the will. The judge found that Dorothy had been far too involved in the will-making process and had imposed undue influence on Terry to make him change his will in her favour. To add insult to injury, it was deemed that Terry never intended to revoke his earlier will, and therefore that will stood. June duly inherited 50% of the estate even though they had not been together for seven years. The family home had to be sold to pay her out, and the legal bills ate into what remained.

So what can we learn from this? If Terry had gone to a qualified solicitor, that solicitor would have been in a position to take independent instructions from Terry and ascertain whether Dorothy was applying undue influence on him or not. The will file would have recorded that the new division of the estate was his idea (if indeed it was!) and that Terry had the requisite mental capacity to make a will. This would have made it much more difficult to challenge. It did not matter that the homemade will was correctly executed, as there are numerous grounds on which a will can be successfully challenged.

Furthermore, if a person's situation changes, his/her current will should be professionally reviewed and on a regular basis. This would avoid anomalies occurring such as June's unintended inheritance.

Keep on running!

And they're off: The start of the 10k senior run

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

THIRTY years of terrific trail running in Trent Park have been toasted.

The 30th annual Triffic Trail saw 500 runners take to their trainers and the footpaths of the 413-acre country park on Sunday.

The 10k race has grown in popularity over the years and is famed for the variety of its terrain and stunning views – as well as its goody bag.

Trent Park Running Club organises the Triffic Trail each year and chairman Andrew Ryde told the Advertiser: “It was a special race this year as it was our 30th. We had more than 500 runners, and 80 in the junior race.

“Last year we were voted as having the best goody bag and we want it to be useful. There are water bottles, nutrition bars, a voucher from our sponsor Runners World and a T-shirt. The juniors get a mug as well.”

Trent Park runner Charlie Bruce won the race in a time of 36 minutes and 38 seconds, ahead of clubmates Adam Bowman and Scott Aiken.

The nominated charity was Nightingale Cancer Support Centre, in Lancaster Road, Enfield. Money is still coming in and Mr Ryde estimated that Trent Park runners had raised £2,000.

Leading from the front: Junior 4.5k run winners Beth Hargreaves and Thomas McArdle

Rivals discuss mansion's future

By Julia Gregory

news.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

POLITICIANS have set up a cross-party working group to try to ensure that residents' views are considered in the search for a new owner of the historic Trent Park mansion.

The group, made up of Enfield councillors, will be consulting with receivers JLL (James Lang LaSalle) as they try to identify a new buyer for the building, which played a key role in World War Two when covert listening devices were used to glean intelligence from captured German officers who were held there.

The grade II listed building was sold for £30million by Middlesex University in August 2013.

The new owners, the Malaysian educational organisation Alliance University College of Medical Sciences, had plans to turn it into a European base.

However, the college never moved into the building, parts of which date back to the 18th century.

The building, which is situated off Snakes Lane, Oakwood, is on English Heritage's "at risk" register.

Enfield Council's working group is keen to ensure that the views of the local community are taken into account.

Chairman and Labour councillor Bambos Charalambous said: "Both political parties on the council accept that we are not currently in a position to financially support any acquisition of the site.

"However, we are committed to trying to secure its proper maintenance as a listed building and its retention in some way as a community asset."

Cockfosters ward councillor Jason Charalambous, who, together with Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes, met JLL representatives last week, has set up the Save Trent Park Campaign and more than 3,000 people signed a petition, which triggered a council debate in March into the building's future.

Tory Mr Charalambous said he would like a heritage centre to be included in any plans to commemorate the role of the "secret listeners", who eavesdropped on German top brass who were prisoners of war.

"I am confident that any right-minded business would see the historic value of the site and seek to protect it as a minimum," he added.

Cross-party working group considers the way forward

What next?: The future of Trent Park's mansion is far from clear

Make your voices heard on £500m incinerator project

Public urged to have a say as time runs out

By James Cracknell
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

TIME is running out for residents to have their say on a new Edmonton incinerator that will cost up to half-a-billion pounds. North London Waste Authority, which handles rubbish from seven London boroughs, wants to knock down and replace the existing 45-year-old facility beside

Have your say: The existing 45-year-old incinerator in Edmonton

the River Lea, which is currently the UK's biggest incinerator.

Previous plans for an incinerator at Pinkham Way, in Bounds Green, on the border of Enfield, Haringey and Barnet, were ditched in 2013 after an opposition campaign over its financial viability and impact on air pollution.

North London Waste Authority now wants to build a new energy-from-waste facility at the Edmonton EcoPark, in Advent Way.

It would cost between £450million and £500m and provide heat for homes and businesses, in addition to generating electricity for 127,000 households by burning waste.

A consultation by North London Waste Authority runs until Tuesday. Its chairman Clyde Loakes, a Waltham Forest councillor, said: "The replacement facility would be built using today's most advanced and proven technology. It would be one of the most effective of its kind by current standards.

"Everyone has until June 30 to have their say on the project before we submit our plans."

North London Waste Authority says the new incinerator will ensure there is employment on site "for many decades" and a "broadly similar" number of jobs to the existing 180 employees at the EcoPark.

If permission is granted for the scheme, construction is due to start in 2019 and finish within three years. The existing incinerator would be demolished in 2027.

Chipping Barnet MP Theresa Villiers, who had been involved in the campaign to stop the Pinkham Way incinerator, visited the site in Edmonton this month and gave the proposed scheme her backing.

She said: "The North London Waste Authority incinerator at Edmonton has been in operation for 45 years and is likely to come to the end of its life with about 10 years.

"The debate about how to replace the Edmonton incinerator has been underway for some years.

"I campaigned strongly against that replacement to include waste processing at Pinkham Way because of the negative impact on residents," added Mrs Villiers.

"If the new facility at Edmonton gets the go-ahead, I believe North London Waste Authority are highly unlikely to revive their Pinkham Way proposals."

The incinerator planned for the Edmonton site will generate electricity from the burning of waste whereas the Pinkham Way plans involved building an incinerator that would make fuel from the burned waste.

Anyone wishing to have their say on the plans for a new incinerator can log on to www.northlondonheatandpower.london

Grants offer hope to council tenants

RESIDENTS in the borough hoping to get their foot on the property ladder are to be given a helping hand by the local authority.

The Grants to Vacate scheme is designed to help council tenants of three or more years buy their own three-bedroom houses by awarding them grants of up to £55,000.

The scheme is funded through a government grant that was awarded to the borough of £600,000.

Housing chiefs maintain that this will free up social housing for those most in need.

Ahmet Oykener, Enfield Council's cabinet member for housing said: "We now have just over £1million to distribute to eligible tenants. In light of the housing crisis, this gives us the chance to help first-time buyers in purchasing homes.

"As tenants move out through the Grants to Vacate scheme, this frees up council housing for some of the 2,000 families in temporary housing."

Mr Oykener added that the council felt it "made sense" to help residents who aspire to be home owners get on the ladder.

Edmonton MP Kate Osamor has spoken out on the issue of housing pressure within London, citing the severe shortage of social housing as the root cause of the issue.

To qualify for a grant, tenants must show they have been a secure council tenant for at least three years, are up-to-date with their rent and can show that the only way they can afford to buy a home is with a grant.

Tenants can find out more by emailing the council at councilhousing@enfield.gov.uk or by downloading the Grants to Vacate - A Guide for Tenants fact sheet and a Grants to Vacate application form from www.enfield.gov.uk

Warehouse on course to transform derelict site

In the warehouse: Councillor Alan Sitkin with workers from the development company

By Ashleigh Tuttle

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FORMER industrial heartlands in the east of the borough are set for a boost with the large-scale revamp of an empty warehouse.

The 93,000 square foot warehouse, in Mollison Avenue, Brimsdown, is undergoing a facelift that will see the derelict site transformed into a space that can comfortably house up to 90 cars and more than 20 lorries as well as swathes of office space.

Enfield Council is backing the project and hoping that once established the warehouse will draw industry back into an area that has traditionally seen high levels of unemployment since the decline of British industry in the 1980s.

Cabinet member for economic development

Alan Sitkin said: "This development right in the heart of Enfield's industrial estates serves as an excellent example of how we can all work together to bring jobs and prosperity to Enfield."

"When operational, this warehouse will not only bring in a large commercial company to Enfield, but will also be in a position to offer jobs to local people, during the building phase and above all once the unit is filled."

Joe Garwood, head of IDI Gazeley, the company overseeing the development, said he was "delighted to be working in partnership with the council" on the project.

He added: "Demand for high specification warehousing in Enfield is currently very high and we look forward to attracting an occupier shortly."

The warehouse should be operating by the end of the month.

A FREE ASSESSMENT AND VALUATION DAY

You are invited to attend our assessment, valuation and purchase day, where TOP PRICES are agreed and offered.

Just bring along your chosen items; our valuer will give you a free appraisal and a current estimation of value. We will then discuss your best course of action and either make an offer of purchase or provide advice on your other options.

Antiques television programmes have made people more aware of the potential value of their belongings, however, the best method of realising the true cash value is not always made clear.

There are many items that are not so obviously valuable and this is where the professional valuer's expertise comes in.

There are times when the exposure of an auction is beneficial – let our experts help you to decide, but many items, where a known or intrinsic value can be simply assessed such as Gold, are just not suited for sale at auction.

Without advice, auctions can actually LOSE you money. After weeks of waiting, and assuming your item sells - commission charges, premiums and taxes reduce your likely share to only two thirds of the total transaction payment!

This is how we are able to offer you a high purchase figure as there's no premium for us and NO STOPPAGES for you, just an immediate cash settlement.

Bike scheme helps riders to saddle up

By Ashleigh Tuttle

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A CYCLING scheme, designed for riders of all abilities, is celebrating a year of helping people to get on their bikes.

The Inclusive Cycling Scheme was set up by Enfield Council last year and more than 2,200 people have been recorded making use of it so far.

On Tuesday, council bosses organised a day of events to showcase the project and thank the organisations and individuals who are already fully signed-up members of the scheme.

Last year the council was awarded £30million from the Mayor of London's office to boost cycling in the borough – and subsequently launched its Cycle Enfield initiative, of which the inclusive scheme is part.

Cabinet member for the environment Daniel Anderson said: "This fantastic scheme demonstrates the popularity of cycling in Enfield and supports our determination to encourage people of all abilities and in all parts of the borough to cycle."

With cycling cited as a key way to stay healthy, Alev Cazimoglu, the cabinet member for health and adult social care, added: "This service is extremely popular with people who have a physical disability, mobility problems or learning difficulties. They can enjoy cycling through a beautiful park, discovering their independence."

One regular user of the service, Peter Cripps, from Bush Hill Park, has described the transformation he has seen in his own life as a result of the scheme.

"I am 84 years old and this scheme enables me to get back on a regular bike," he said. "For me, it has been an exhilarating experience."

Part of the cycling revolution involves anyone

On your bikes: Riders celebrate the first anniversary of the Inclusive Cycling Scheme at Bush Hill Park who has a rusted, unloved and underused bike donating it to the young people at West Lea School, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton, who are learning the key components of bike mechanics at their school shop in the north mall of Edmonton Green shopping centre.

Nneke Keazor, the cabinet member for public health and sport, said: "Our inclusive scheme is a great introduction for people learning how to cycle. It has sparked considerable interest with more people wanting to learn and others willing to take up repair and maintenance."

The inclusive scheme is open all year round from Tuesday to Friday from 10.30am to 1.30pm. To contact the scheme, call 020 8379 2445 Monday to Friday between 9am and 3.30pm to register and book for free.

The Latymer School

Latymer is a co-educational grammar school in Edmonton. Students come from Enfield and surrounding boroughs. Students achieve the highest academic standards but also have a sense of engagement with the community and of public service. As members of the school they make a contribution to the local community, for example by collecting almost 1 tonne of food for the Edmonton Food Bank in December 2013 and in December 2014. Students have also raised money for Barnet Hospital Children's Ward, providing 2 ipads. Year 10 students have recently formed a focus group to offer advice to Barnet General Hospital on how they can best meet the needs of young people on their Children's Ward. Our students assist teachers in local primary schools, for example sixth formers visit during their own study periods to help with mathematics.

We are eagerly anticipating a repeat of a garden party for William Preye Day Centre in Edmonton. The photo shows last year's event.

EDUCATION FOR LIFE

End of Term reports from some of the area's top local education establishments...

Vita Et Pax Preparatory School
6A Priory Close, Green Road
Southgate, London N14 4AT
www.vitaetpax.co.uk
info@vitaetpax.co.uk

At Vita et Pax we consider the building of character and good learning habits to be the goal in education. With the support of parents, we build the children's confidence, ambition, enthusiasm and zest. Pupil's creativity is encouraged in all areas of the curriculum and their individuality valued. We encourage the pupils to develop the characteristics and values of Pace, Determination and Self-regulation from Nursery class onwards. These will last them a lifetime if practised regularly.

Our staff work to build the pupils' skills through well planned and differentiated lessons that meet their needs and prepare them for the next phase of their education as well as being good citizens. Our pupils' natural curiosity is appreciated in group discussion and is often the catalyst for further learning. However, the characteristics of resilience, tenacity and self-control enable them to see a given task through to the end.

Respect and good manners are encouraged as well as humility, conviviality and sensitivity to global issues and concerns.

Good communication and commitment between school and parents is essential in order to get the best outcome for the individual pupils. This collaboration is proved to work at this school and is borne out in the excellent Secondary destinations that our pupils achieve.

At Vita et Pax the family atmosphere and calm can be experienced once you walk through the door. The pupils and parents make enduring friendships which is evidenced for years to come when they return with their own families.

These are the characteristics and values that our pupils bring to their Senior Schools.

Headmistress Margaret O'Connor

KEBLE PREP

At Keble Prep every individual counts

Our compact site helps in this regard, with individuals getting to know each other as their paths cross many times each day. Visitors will often comment on the 'laid-back' nature of our school, from Wades Hill one would not imagine the space we enjoy and most importantly the playground areas for boys to run around, let off steam and build friendships. This, coupled with a positive building development programme gives an ideal place for the boys to learn and develop.

The way that we manage our curriculum also puts the individual at the heart of things. Smaller class sizes on average than many comparable schools further help our academic staff really understand what makes each boy tick and build learning around that knowledge. In addition our ethos encourages independence (as evidenced in our last ISI inspection report), and values decency and courtesy. These, coupled with high expectations in terms of diligence and behaviour, mean that Keble Prep is a school where each boy makes strong progress and where results in later years belie the non-selective nature of the admissions process at Reception.

Every boy is both challenged and encouraged to make the most of his talents wherever they may be found. For some it is on the sports field, for others the concert stage or exam hall. However they are reached, they will be recognised and celebrated because for us every one counts.

From its establishment in 1924 Grange Park Prep School has been a happy and successful school providing a stimulating educational experience for girls between the ages of 4-11.

Classes are small, with a maximum of 16 children, allowing each girl to be known as an individual. We have an experienced dedicated staff, with specialist teaching in French, Dance and Drama, Music and PE.

Now in our 90th year we are delighted to announce our intention to open a Nursery class for children aged 3 and 4. Nursery staff and children will have access to the excellent resources available at GPPS, including outside space, the gym and a cooked lunch for those children staying the whole day. The children will follow the Early Years Curriculum with additional specialist teaching in French, Dance, Drama and Music.

Our strong parent/school partnership ensures a thriving and proactive learning environment. Key Stage 2 girls are prepared for 11+ state selective and independent secondary schools from as early as year 3. In addition, from year 5, girls wishing to sit for selective schools attend prep classes after school, equipping them with the tools to achieve their maximum potential.

Girls enjoy a very busy school life, and benefit from an excellent variety of extracurricular activities, including LAMDA, horse riding and chess.

Before leaving GPPS every girl will have been given a responsible role, instilling in them a sense of duty and ingrained confidence and preparing them for today's challenges!

PALMERS GREEN
HIGH SCHOOL

"Embracing opportunities to further individual talents..."

From Nursery to Year 11 our girls have had an excellent year. Our Alice Nursery girls performed a splendid Nativity Play in December and have welcomed visitors to assist their learning journey, such as a dentist, a cardiologist, fire-fighters, police officers and "Uncle Vic and his mini-beasts". Exciting visits to Willows Farm and The Chickenshed Theatre enhanced their year - and Sports Day is still to come!

Prep girls (Reception to Year 2) have given splendid performances in their Christmas Show, Assemblies and Concerts. Year 2 (with the help of the Chemistry Department) reconstructed the Great Fire of London in the playground, and the preps greatly enjoyed their visits to Hayes Hill Farm, The Tower of London and London Zoo.

Juniors (Years 3-6) enjoyed a residential course at Flatford Mill and many day visits, including Verulamium, Cuffley Camp, The British Schools Museum and The British Film Institute. Working hard in preparation for the annual Junior Show and Prize Giving at the Intimate Theatre is currently keeping them very busy, and they are hoping for a sunny Sports Day later this month.

The Senior School (Years 7-11) once again celebrated outstanding GCSE results, placing the school top in the Sunday Times Parent Power national league table for small schools for the fifth year running. Individual and group successes came in English with four poems selected for inclusion in The Poetry Games 2014 and in Science with our teams in the London Hydrogen Challenge winning 1st place in 2014 and 2nd place in 2015. In addition our team for the UCL GO4SET Design Challenge won the student vote for their energy saving system design. Individual girls have also been successful at county and national level in music, drama, ballet, cricket and swimming, with support from the school because we believe in encouraging girls to embrace opportunities to further their individual talents.

What's on and what's coming

In the frame: New Revival, from Wales, and Daniel Eagle, from Southampton, will both be competing for the £500 first prize at the Battle of the Bands

Are you ready for the Battle of the Bands?

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

RIVAL bands from across the UK will travel to the borough on Saturday to compete in a contest billed as "Enfield's battle of the bands".

The live music extravaganza in a giant marquee at Capel Manor in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield, will showcase nine established and up-and-coming bands as they battle it out for the £500 prize money.

Each will need to pull out all the stops to impress the judging panel which comprises The Kinks' original drummer Mick Avery, John Dee, of The Foundations, and Alan Lovell, of the Swinging Blue Jeans.

They are members of the 60s All Stars, who will also perform, once the competition is over.

"It's one of the biggest live music events Enfield has seen," said Glenn Breslin, guv'nor of The Beehive pub, in Little Bury Street, Edmonton, who, together with Capel Manor principal Steve Dowbiggin, has organised the contest, with proceeds going to charities supported by Edmonton Rotary Club.

Glenn, who has live music at his pub, spent months auditioning the 300 bands who applied, whittling them down to the nine acts.

"We have bands like New Revival coming from Wales and singer-songwriter Daniel Eagle, from Southampton, and others like Obsession UK closer to home with members based in Barnet and Enfield. Most have released albums and played festivals," he said. "The acts cover all genres from indie rock, to pop, soul, jazz funk and Motown, to heavy metal."

The bands will be expected to perform a 10-15 minute set of three songs featuring their own compositions or covers – the only stipulation being one of the songs has to be a cover. They will be judged on quality of musicianship, vocals, presentation and audience participation.

"It is a fantastic showcase for talent and we plan to hold the Battle of the Bands as an annual event," added Glenn.

Banaaanaaaa! Minions gru on you

MINIONS (U, 91 mins)

THE plucky yellow sidekicks from the Despicable Me series graduate to heroes of their own big-screen computer-animated adventure, directed by Pierre Coffin and Kyle Balda.

Since the dawn of time, the Minions have gravitated towards the most despicable master they can find, including the mighty Tyrannosaurus Rex, Count Dracula and Napoleon.

Unfortunately, these masters have a habit of dying prematurely – at the hands of their bald yellow hench creatures – leaving the Minions in a state of deep depression.

One brave Minion named Kevin embarks on an epic quest to find a new evil boss for his brethren to follow.

Flanked by teenage rebel Stuart and diminutive scaredy-cat Bob, Kevin leaves the Minions' home in Antarctica bound for 1968 New York City, where he stumbles upon the world's first female super-villain: the flamboyant and stylish Scarlet Overkill (Sandra Bullock).

Kevin, Stuart and Bob pledge to serve Scarlet, who hatches a diabolical scheme with her inventor husband Herb (Jon Hamm) to steal the British crown jewels and seize the throne from Queen Elizabeth II (Jennifer Saunders).

As this plan takes shape and Kevin, Stuart and Bob head to swinging London, the yellow underlings realise they stand on the brink of Minionkind's total annihilation.

DEVELOPMENT OPPORTUNITIES

May 8th 2015 and the national house builders' share values had increased, the murmurings were positive and smiles were seen far and wide in the property world. The property industry certainly reacted favourably to a majority Government which removed the fear of another five years of uncertainty in Westminster and therefore uncertainty across the property market.

All political parties acknowledged the need for more housing and the three main parties were promising 200,000 more new homes every year to satisfy demand. Post-election promises need to be delivered so clearly a large amount of deliverable development land (greenfield and brownfield) in sustainable locations must now be identified.

Perhaps you own something (land, commercial units, a yard or anything with potential) and are wondering what it could now be worth? Now is the time to investigate further as the lack of supply and the obvious high demand is bound to have had a direct effect on the value.

Lanes specialist Land & New Homes Company can provide up to date development appraisals and advise on all things development, from inception to completion.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, quotes, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

KANE KEEN TO STAY AT SPURS

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HARRY KANE insists that he is happy to stay at Tottenham Hotspur next season despite reported interest from Manchester United.

The young striker has enjoyed a dramatic rise over the past 12 months and scored 21 Premier League goals last season as he was named the Professional Footballers' Association Young Player of the Year.

Kane's fine form has led to him being linked with a big-money move to Manchester United, but the striker has claimed that he is more than happy to stay at Spurs.

"Of course I have been watching Sky Sports and have seen the interest," he said. "But I am happy at Spurs and I look forward to the future with Spurs. I have seen there is interest but that's all I know. It is flattering for other clubs to possibly be interested."

"Tottenham are a big club and that's how people have got to see it. I'm at a big club now and enjoying my football looking forward to next season at White Hart Lane."

Meanwhile, Kieran Trippier is relishing the prospect of playing for Tottenham after completing his move to the club from Burnley.

The 24-year-old, who started all 38 of Burnley's Premier League games last season, has joined Spurs on a five-year deal for an undisclosed fee and will compete with Kyle Walker for the right-back spot.

"It's a great opportunity for me to sign for Spurs," he said. "When I first heard that the club was interested I didn't have to think twice because they are such a big club. Now I just can't wait to get started and show everyone what I can do."

"I'm very keen to perform in training every single day, do the best I can and hopefully get the nod from the gaffer. Whenever I get a chance, I want to do well for the other players, the staff and, of course, the fans."

"The squad here is unbelievable, there's so much quality in the team and I'm really looking forward to starting work in pre-season and being a part of that."

Trippier added: "It's an unbelievable feeling to be part of a club playing both Premier League and Europa League football – it's massive. It had always been a dream of mine to play in the Premier League and now being with a club playing regularly in Europe as well, I can't wait to get under way."

"I enjoyed my time in the Premier League with Burnley last year, and hopefully I can bring some of the lessons that I learned to Tottenham when I get a chance."

"At Burnley we knew it was going to be difficult last year but now, coming to Spurs, I want to improve. I'm hungry to remain involved in the Premier League, it's where I've always wanted to be since I was very young and I've got a great chance now with Tottenham."

"I'll take every opportunity I get with both hands and hopefully play my part for everyone at the club."

Staying put: Harry Kane insists he wants to remain at Spurs despite interest from Manchester United

Rain causes match to be abandoned

NORTH MIDDLESEX were frustrated by the weather on Saturday as rain forced their clash against Hampstead in the top flight of the Middlesex County Cricket League to be called off.

High-flying North Middlesex were forced to bat first after losing the toss and both openers fell cheaply before Evan Flowers (62) launched their fightback by sharing in stands of 51 for the third wicket with Will Vanderspar (25) and 44 for the fourth wicket with Tom Nicoll (33).

However, it was Sam Webber who played the decisive innings as he smashed 70 off 59 balls to help them get up to a total of 241, with Steve Clark and Jamie Gibson taking three wickets each.

Joel Hughes (3-48) made early inroads when Hampstead replied, but Jack Bidduh (27) and Ragheb Aga (30 not out) offered some resistance and the visitors had reached 82-4 when the rain forced the players from the field after 18.2 overs – just ten balls short of the total needed to constitute a match.

Meanwhile, there was disappointment for Hornsey as they lost by six wickets at Brondesbury in Division Two.

Ed Wharton top-scored as the visitors were dismissed for 144 batting first – with Sam Smith taking 4-39 – and Brondesbury eased to 147-4 in reply.

Elsewhere, the rain denied Highgate a likely victory in their Division Three clash at South Hampstead as they had to settle for a winning draw.

Hashen Ramanayake made a superb unbeaten 116 as Highgate posted 184 batting first and the hosts had struggled to 100-7 when play was called off.

And rain led to North London's home match against Winchmore Hill being abandoned.

Jim Gating (122 not out), De la Rey Terblanche (60 not out), Charlie Holmes (59) and Morgan Prior (53) all scored heaving as Hill declared on an imposing 300-2, before Jack Atchinson's unbeaten 53 enabled North London to reach 70-2 in the play that was possible prior to the rain.

North Middlesex go to Richmond on Saturday, while Hornsey host Eastcote, Highgate entertain MTSSC and North London are at Harrow Town.

Good start is not enough for Skolars

THE London Skolars failed to make the most of a fine start as they slumped to a 19-12 defeat at home to in-form Newcastle Thunder in rugby league's Kingstone Press Championship One on Sunday.

The struggling Skolars – who have only won once in the league all season – had been expected to face another difficult afternoon against a side who are challenging for promotion, but they made light of their poor form by taking control of the match in the opening stages.

Will Lovell gave the hosts the lead by touching down in the corner for a try which Marcus Elliot superbly converted.

And only 12 minutes had been played when the Skolars struck again – Joe Wicks collecting Lamont Bryan's offload to cross the line. Elliot's successful conversion extended their advantage to 12-0.

Newcastle were rocked by this and took some time to get into their stride, but they got on the scoreboard four minutes before the interval when Matty Marsh scored under the posts to leave Matty Beharrell with a simple conversion.

The Skolars continued to battle hard in the second period and they maintained their advantage until shortly before the hour mark when Rhys Clarke found a hole in the defence and grabbed a converted try to level the scores.

Lifted by this, the visitors went ahead for the first time soon after when Evan Simons touched down for another converted try.

The hosts attempted to fight back in the closing stages but were unable to break through and their fate was sealed when Beharrell added a drop-goal two minutes from time.

The match saw Glenn Riley making his debut for the Skolars after joining the club on a temporary basis from the London Broncos as he returns from a long-term injury.

The prop began his career in the junior ranks with Warrington Wolves, appearing for their first team on several occasions, and has previous experience of playing in the Championship with the Swinton Lions.

The London Skolars host the South West Scorpions on Sunday.

SCIENTIFIC MIRACLES IN THE QUR'ĀN

A miracle is a divine act which defies and transcends universal laws which God grants to the Prophets in order to convince people of the truth of their message. These Divine miracles are designed to provide people with the capacity to perceive them as signs of God's power, knowledge and will over all things in the universe. For a miracle to have full impact it should relate to an area of knowledge in which its intended audience are well versed; in this way can a miracle fulfil its purpose.

Historically, every Prophet was given miracles and these were witnessed by their respective contemporaries. The Prophet Muhammad is unique in the chain of Prophethood, for unlike all previous Prophets, he was sent as God's final Prophet and Messenger for all mankind. Reason demands, therefore, that he should have a universal miracle that is not bound by time or geographical considerations. Every individual at every stage of human history, no matter where he lived in the world, is hence justified in saying, "If Muhammad is a Prophet for me today, I would like to behold a miracle today."

Unlike the tangible miracles [an example being the splitting of the sea] of the previous Prophets, the main miracle of the Prophet Muhammad, although he was given other miracles, was an intellectual miracle.

The miraculous nature of the Qur'ān lies in the knowledge it contains and this is everlasting, renewable and a living proof. Recent advancements in various sciences have revealed innumerable facts. None of these discoveries contradict a single verse of the Qur'ān. In fact, each time the world makes a breakthrough in unravelling the universe, we increase in certainty that the One who created this universe is the One who revealed the Qur'ān. The Qur'ān is filled with important facts which were revealed at a point in human history when no man could possibly have known them. The Qur'ān speaks about the origins of the universe, workings of celestial bodies, stages of embryonic human development, behavioural patterns of species, historical and archaeological truths, etc.

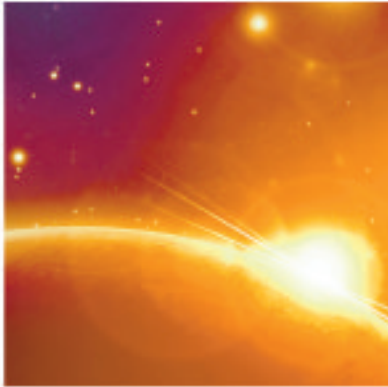

For each successive generation, the Qur'ān offers new and relevant meanings, proportionate to the development of knowledge and growth of that generation's intellectual aptitude. In other words, they are applicable to the constantly developing perceptions of the human race, expanding in meaning as man's exploration of the universe and his search for knowledge about his life and existence increases. From this we see that the Qur'ān was not intended solely for one people or nation, but came for the benefit and guidance of all.

The Qur'ān on the 'Big Bang Theory

"Have those who disbelieved not considered that the heavens and the earth were a [ratq] joined entity, and We [fataqa] separated them.... Then will they not believe?" [Qur'ān 21:30]

The enormously vast universe has been the object of curiosity since time immemorial. Greek philosophers, including Aristotle, believed that the Universe had always existed and would continue to do so eternally. This was also the mainstream view in scientific circles at the beginning of the 20th century, aptly known as the 'steady state theory'. An eternal state of the universe meant that there was no inherent need for a Creator – for what does not have a beginning does not necessitate a need for a cause. However, advancements in science would shatter this view and fundamentally prove that the Universe had a beginning.

In 1922, physicist Alexander Friedmann, produced computations showing that the structure of the universe was not static and that even a tiny impulse might be sufficient to cause the whole structure to expand or contract according to Einstein's "Theory of General Relativity".

George Lemaitre was the first to recognise the implications of what Friedmann concluded. Based on these computations, Lemaitre declared that the universe must have had a beginning and that it was expanding as a result of something that triggered it. He also stated that the rate of radiation could be used as a measure of the aftermath of that 'something'.

The theoretical musings of these two scientists did not attract much attention and probably would have gone ignored except for new observational evidence that rocked the scientific world in 1929. That year, American astronomer Edwin Hubble, made one of the most important discoveries in the history of astronomy. He discovered that galaxies were moving away from us at speeds directly relative to their distance from us and from each other.

A universe where everything constantly moves away from everything else implied a constantly expanding universe. Stephen Hawking writes, "The expansion of the universe was one of the most important intellectual discoveries of the 20th century, or of any century."

Since the universe is constantly expanding, were we to rewind a film [of its history], then necessarily we would find the entire universe was in a joint state, referred to by some as the 'Primordial Atom'. Many scientists and philosophers resisted the idea of a beginning to the universe because of the many questions that it raised – primarily what or who caused it. However, with Penzias and Wilson's discovery of microwave radiation emanating from all directions, possessing the same physical characteristics – namely petrified light which came from a huge explosion during the first seconds after the birth of the universe – left little doubt about the fact that the universe had a beginning.

For fourteen hundred years, since the revelation of the Qur'ān, sceptics had trouble understanding the verse, "...the heavens and the earth were a joined entity and We separated them..." [21:30]. However, with the assistance of scientific advancements, we can now understand these verses in a new light which help us piece together the cosmological puzzle. The miraculous nature of the Qur'ān lies in the knowledge it contains. Its verification of scientific facts shows that its message is as applicable to the scientist in his laboratory today as it was to the Bedouin in the desert.

THE QUR'ĀN ON HUMAN EMBRYONIC DEVELOPMENT

Western physicians, during the 16th century, believed that a human being's origin began entirely in the male's semen. They envisaged that inside the male semen was a minuscule, fully formed human being who grew larger once implanted into the womb of the mother.

During the 17th and 18th centuries, the previously held view was replaced by the opinion that the 'minuscule' human instead formed out of the woman's menstrual blood coagulating [thickening] and that the male semen was merely an activating agent. It was not until 1775, that Italian scientist Spallanzani established that both the male semen and female ovum were required to form the human embryo.

It was also not until modern times, with the help of the electron microscope, that scientists discovered the existence of chromosomes and genes and that human embryonic development takes place in successive distinct stages.

The terminology used to describe human development in the Qur'ān is characterized by descriptiveness and accuracy. Until recently these statements were not fully appreciated, since they referred to details in human development which were scientifically unknown in earlier times.

In the Qur'ān, God mentions that human embryonic development passes through a number of distinct stages:

"...We placed him as a sperm-drop [nutfah] in a firm lodging [i.e., womb]. Then We made the sperm-drop into a clinging clot ['alaqah], and We made the clot ['alaqah] into a [mudghah] lump [of flesh], and We made [from] the lump, [idham] bones, and We covered the bones with [lahm] flesh; then We developed him into another creation. So blessed is God, the best of creators."

[Qur'ān 23:12-14]

Stage 1: The Nutfah
Stage 2: The 'Alaqah
Stage 3: The Mudghah

Stage 1: The Nutfah

The Nutfah literally means 'a [single] drop' of fluid whereas Mani' means 'semen.' God says, "Had he not been a sperm [nutfah] from semen [mani'] emitted?" [Qur'ān 75:36]

In the Qur'ān and Hadith [Prophetic Traditions], Nutfah is used in three different but related contexts:

1. The Male Nutfah [Qur'ān 75:36]
2. The Female Nutfah
3. Nutfah Arshaj – mixed or mingled Male and Female Nutfah [Qur'ān 76:2]

The word Nutfah was mentioned twelve different times in the Qur'ān and the word Mani' was mentioned thrice. In the male context, the Nutfah is a single particle from the Mani' when it is ejaculated – i.e. a single cell [sperm] from amongst the 200-300 million sperm cells. Before the 16th century, writings on embryonic development did not distinguish the constituent parts of the semen in its role of fertilisation.

"And that He creates the two mates - the male and female - From a sperm-drop [nutfah] when it is emitted."

[Qur'ān 53:45-46]

In these Ayaat [verses], there are a lot of facts that require careful consideration. We know the sex of the newborn is determined by the sperm - it is definitively stated that the male and female are fashioned from a sperm-drop from the semen that has been ejaculated. If a sperm carrying an X chromosome fertilises an ovum [which always contains an X chromosome], the offspring will be a girl, while if the fertilising sperm contains a Y chromosome, the offspring will be a boy. The Qur'an has stated this fact 1,400 years ago, before anybody knew anything about X and Y chromosomes.

The Female Nutfah [ovum] per se is not mentioned explicitly in the Qur'an, but is inferred in the term Nutfah Amshaj – i.e. mingled from both male and female [refer to Qur'an 76:2]. However, it is clearly stated in a saying from the Prophet.

A Jew came to the Prophet and asked, 'O Muhammad. Tell me from what thing man is created.' The Prophet said, 'O Jew. From both Male and Female Nutfah, man is created.'

This is a very astonishing revelation, as it is only recently that we came to know that both male and female cells [sperm and ovum] join together to form the human zygote – a fact not known before the 19th century.

THE ROLE OF GENES

'From what substance did He create him? From a sperm-drop [nutfah] He created him and destined [qadr] for him.'

Qur'an 80:18-1

In a single Male Nutfah [sperm cell], which measures 60 microns [1 micron = 1/1000 mm], there are 23 Chromosomes – long spiral double strand helix. They contain the genes which determine every type of characteristics the body has like hair colour, skin type, etc. Hence, it is within this Nutfah that God has determined and destined all the physical characteristics that an individual has. It is amazing that the description of these realities are so accurately stated by God in the Qur'an.

Stage 2: ALAQAH

"...Then We made the sperm-drop [nutfah] into a clinging clot [alaqah], and We made the clot [alaqah] into a lump [of flesh - mudghah]..."

Qur'an 23:14

Literally, the Arabic word alaqah has three meanings: (1) leech, (2) suspended thing, and (3) blood clot.

In comparing a leech to an embryo in the alaqah stage, we find similarity between the two. Also, the embryo at this stage obtains nourishment from the blood of the mother, similar to the leech, which feeds on the blood of others. The second meaning of the word alaqah is "suspended thing." This is what we can see above the suspension of the embryo, during the alaqah stage, in the womb of the mother. The third meaning of the word alaqah is

"blood clot." We find that the external appearance of the embryo and its sacs during the alaqah stage is similar to that of a blood clot. This is due to the presence of relatively large amounts of blood present in the embryo during this stage. Also during this stage, the blood in the embryo does not circulate until the end of the third week. Thus, the embryo at this stage is like a clot of blood.

Stage 3: MUDGHAH

The next stage mentioned in the verse is the mudghah stage. The Arabic word mudghah means "Chewed substance." If one were to take a piece of gum and chew it in his or her mouth and then compare it with an embryo at the mudghah stage, we would conclude that the embryo at the mudghah stage acquires the appearance of a chewed substance. This is because of the somites at the back of the embryo that "somewhat resemble teeth-marks in a chewed substance."

How could Prophet Muhammad, may the blessing and mercy of God be upon him, have possibly known all this 1400 years ago, when scientists have only recently discovered this using advanced equipment and powerful microscopes which did not exist at that time? Hamm and Leeuwenhoek were the first scientists to observe human sperm cells (spermatozoa) using an improved microscope in 1677 (more than 1000 years after Prophet Muhammad, peace be upon him).

The above photograph of an embryo at the mudghah stage (28 days old). The embryo at this stage acquires the appearance of a chewed substance, because the somites at the back of the embryo somewhat resemble teeth marks in a chewed substance. The actual size of the embryo is 4 mm.

SCIENTISTS' ACCEPTANCE OF THE MIRACLES OF THE QUR'AN

Professor Emeritus Keith L. Moore: [one of the world's most prominent scientists in the fields of anatomy and embryology and is the author of the book entitled 'The Developing Human', and was awarded, the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal in 2012 for his significant contributions. He said, "...Because the staging of human embryos is complex, owing to the continuous process of change during development, it is proposed that a new system of classification could be developed using the terms mentioned in the Qur'an and Sunnah. The proposed system is simple, comprehensive, and conforms with present embryological knowledge. The intensive studies of the Qur'an and Hadith in the last four years have revealed a system for classifying human embryos that is amazing since it was recorded in the seventh century A.D. Although Aristotle, the founder of the science of embryology, realized that chick embryos developed in stages from his studies of hen's eggs in the fourth century B.C., he did not give any details about these stages. As far as it is known from the history of embryology, little was known about the staging and classification of human embryos until the twentieth century. For this reason, the descriptions of the human embryo in the Qur'an cannot be based on scientific knowledge in the seventh century."]

Dr. TVN. Persaud: [Professor of Anatomy, University of Manitoba, Canada] said, "The way it was explained to me is that Muhammad was a very ordinary man. He could not read, didn't know [how] to write. In fact, he was an illiterate. And we're talking about twelve [actually about fourteen] hundred years ago. You have someone illiterate making profound pronouncements and statements and that are amazingly accurate about scientific nature. And I personally can't see how this could be a mere chance. There are too many accuracies and, like Dr. Moore, I have no difficulty in my mind that this is a divine inspiration or revelation which led him to these statements."

Professor Moore, World authority in Embryology and Cell Biology. Author of 'Developing Human'

Dr. E. Marshall Johnson: [Professor Emeritus of Anatomy and Developmental Biology, Thomas Jefferson University, USA] said, "The Qur'an describes not only the development of external form, but emphasizes also the internal stages, the stages inside the embryo, of its creation and development, emphasizing major events recognized by contemporary science." and, "As a scientist, I can only deal with things which I can specifically see. I can understand embryology and developmental biology; I can understand the words that are translated to me from the Qur'an. As I gave the example before, if I were to transpose myself into that era, knowing what I knew today and describing things, I could not describe the things which were described. I see no evidence for the fact to refute the concept that this individual, Muhammad, had to be developing this information from some place. So I see nothing here in conflict with the concept that divine intervention was involved in what he was able to write."

Dr. Yoshihide Kozai: [Professor Emeritus, Tokyo University, Japan, and was the Director of the National Astronomical Observatory, Mitaka, Japan] said: "I am very much impressed by finding true astronomical facts in [the] Qur'an, and for us the modern astronomers have been studying very small pieces of the universe. We've concentrated our efforts for understanding of [a] very small part. Because by using telescopes, we can see only very few parts [of] the sky without thinking [about the] whole universe. So, by reading [the] Qur'an and by answering the questions, I think I can find my future way for investigation of the universe."

Could it be just a coincidence that all this recently discovered scientific information from different fields was mentioned in the Qur'an, which was revealed fourteen centuries ago? Could this Qur'an have been authored by Muhammad or by any other human being?

How could Prophet Muhammad have possibly known all this 1,400 years ago, when scientists have only recently discovered this using advanced equipment and powerful microscopes which did not exist at that time?

The only answer is that the Qur'an is the word of God Almighty.
